Proposed Regulation

Endurance Racing

9.1.5. ~~All starters in an Endurance race will be classified in the results according to the number of completed laps.~~ To be classified in the results of an Endurance race a competitor must have completed at least a minimum of 50% of the race duration completed by the winner. This minimum distance may be increased within specific championship regulations but may not be reduced.

Date of Implementation: 1st January 2025

Reason: Following the reasoning to the current wording of 9.1.5. being queried at Race Committee they were advised that this has last been debated in 2014 which resulted in the current regulation. Having reviewed the requirements of Britcar, British GT and 750 Enduro championships not one of these championships allow for 'all starters' in an endurance race to be classified. This proposal therefore regulates and provides for current practice and makes provision for the individual championships to designate the race distance that must be completed in order for competitors to be classified.
